A group of women, many wearing white headscarves, are marching down a city street in Bangladesh. They are holding large, yellow circular signs with red Bengali characters. The signs, when read from left to right, spell out 'জাতি ময় ২০৬৬' (Jati Moy 2066), which translates to 'National Day 2066' in the Bengali calendar. The women are dressed in various traditional and modern attire, including colorful saris and headscarves. The background shows a typical urban street with buildings, trees, and other people.
